

Robert Parker's

Wine Advocate

87-88+
P O I N T S

GEORGES DUBŒUF 2009 MOULIN-à-VENT DOMAINE des ROSIERS

“The effects of extended maceration and maturation in one and two year old barrels is very evident in the 2009 Moulin-a-Vent Domaine des Rosiers – still in barrel when I tasted a pre-assemblage – which combines resin and vanilla with cassis and boysenberry; offers an almost thickly rich sense of concentration; and finishes with a bit of awkward roughness and persistent, slightly drying woodiness. That said, this is powerfully fruity and its notes of salt, iodine, and leather certainly lend a degree of complexity, and the wine seems more likely to in time slough off the effects of its wooden upbringing than do a couple of its fellow Duboeuf Moulin-a-Vents”

— David Schildknecht, Robert Parker's Wine Advocate, Issue #190 August 2010